

PROJECT INFORMATION

INDONESIA THEOLOGICAL EDUCATION AND TRAINING

With your donation you support the Church of South India in its multifaceted commitment.

EMS currently supports four projects in its Indonesian member churches for training and further education

In Indonesia protestants face challenges on a daily basis – particularly given their position as a religious minority. EMS member churches invest in education and training. This is a vital support.

Empowering Society Through Political Education

In the remote high valley of Mamasa in West Sulawesi the GTM wants its members to develop the ability to actively shape society, identify harmful developments such as corruption, and speak out against it. The GTM is working on the project together with the Leimena Institute. The institute has been working at the interface between religion, politics and society for the past 20 years.

Comprehensive coaching for young adults in the church

In many rural areas of Indonesia families with children can often not afford to send more than one child to school. The Christian Church in West Sulawesi (GKSB) is striving at local level to ensure that members of their congregations receive a good education and all-round support. The aim is to promote awareness of a living a healthy and eco-friendly life in harmony with nature.

A confession of faith to strengthen the spiritual profile of the church

The Protestant Indonesian Church in Luwu (GPIL) became an independent church in 1966. After producing a catechism and a service order in the past, the church is now formulating its own confession of faith. This process will emphasise the church's spiritual profile and the spiritual life of its members.

Evangelist Training

In some isolated villages in the remote mountainous regions of South East Sulawesi, there is little access to education or medical care. The Protestant Church in South-East Sulawesi (GEPSULTRA) trains evangelists, who travel to those people in remote villages. They are supporting pastors, who must often serve ten to 15 communities, scattered far and wide. The evangelists not only spread the gospel, but are also community leaders, social workers and aid workers. This way, Mission takes place practically by serving humanity.
